REV. WM. BRIGGS

We have already noted the election of the Rev. Mr. Briggs as President of the Toronto Conference of the Methodist Church by almost unanimous vote. In this city where Mr. Briggs has so many friends, not only in the Methodist Church, but amongst all denominations, his election has given great satisfaction. His geniality, his one of the most popular of pastors, will qualify him in an eminent degree for filling the Presidential Chair, and we doubt not that his many gifts will find ready response and will be more fully developed in the high position he has so gallantly been called on to fill. Amongst the many good things Mr. Briggs said in his address on accepting the presidency, the following will show the interest in it.

Rev. Mr. Briggs said he had to thank

Dr. Sutherland for the kind words of welcome he had uttered, and he heartily thanked the members of the conference for the vote which had placed him in that position.

He took it that the vote carried with it the confidence, the esteem, and the hearty fraternal regard that gave to the office its highest honor. (Hear, hear.) He was not sure that he had the ability to preside over the annual gathering, for parliamentary practices and rules of order, and he practically no knowledge of the subject as to to refer to this or that point at a moment's notice, had not been with him in his studies, but of this he was perfectly sure—he had not sought the position. (Hear, hear.) It was the spontaneous act of his brethren; it was unthought of; (Applause.)

He appreciated it as fully as any other brother as the highest honor that the members of an annual conference could give to one of its members, and so he needed, and therefore asked, he was certain he would receive, their kind indulgence. (Applause.)

He was certain he did not need the office in order to do work for the week days, and preaching opportunities for the Sunday. "Why, then," it might be asked,

"accept the position?" He would tell them. He once heard a distinguished Methodist minister, the president of a conference, say to some such inquiry as this:

"Why did you to the burdens of your work?" That had looked on the long list of distinguished men who had been accepted, and he could not find one who had declined (laughter) nor who had not accepted the situation, and as he was a very modest man, he did not like to start a new thing in a Methodist conference.

(Hear, hear.) He did distinguish himself, (Mr. Briggs) who had been

The Yacht "Minnie A."

CLARENCE, June 11th, 1885.

To the Editor of the Intelligence.

In a late issue of the INTELLIGENCER you speak of the yacht "Minnie A." as being very allow me to say, as I found her very and as she proved to be a most valuable addition to the fleet. I decided to visit the yacht, and at a cost equal to the last one. Consequently, I have just received the new, and of the best material.

She is a most valuable addition to the

be a most valuable addition to the
